HANGING BY LONG ROPE.

Suicide of Samuel Hunt at Portland, Maine.
Portland, Me., April 6.—Samuel Hunt, aged 49, committed suicide yesterday in a rather sensational manner in a second class hotel. After fastening one end of a rope to one of the balusters of the stairway leading to the third floor, and placing a noose made in the other end about his neck, he jumped from the landing of the second floor. When found, his body was suspended within five feet of the first floor. The cause of the deed is considered a mystery. He was born at West Gray, and nearly all his life and lived in the vicinity of this city.
